You feel like one of your neighbors might be upset with you, but you don’t know why.

Now What?

You’re home alone and you begin to hear strange sounds outside the window. You peek out and notice some rustling around outside that you’ve never seen before.

Now What?

Someone keeps prank calling you. They’re now saying things that are making you uncomfortable and kind of scared.

Now What?

Someone keeps prank calling you, saying annoying things and laughing. You haven’t told your parents yet, and though you’re upset, the caller hasn’t made any comments to make you feel unsafe.

Now What?

While walking home one day, from a distance you notice two men who appear to be in a pretty serious fight. One man appears to be badly hurt.

Now What?

Your dad needs you to get some groceries. He doesn’t have a list written out, but he tells you to get enough groceries to feed the family dinner for three days.

Now What?

On your way home one day, you slip on a banana peel and bang your elbow on the ground.

Now What?

You forgot to write down your work schedule for the week and can’t remember it by memory.

Now What?

You aren’t feeling well and you’re scheduled to work later today. You take your temperature and it is 101 degrees Fahrenheit.

Now What?

You aren’t feeling well and you’re scheduled to work later today. You don’t have a fever, but you’re congested and have a bit of a cough.
