You are talking to your elderly neighbor and all of a sudden he has trouble speaking.

Now What?

Your nail breaks while you are washing dishes.

Now What?

You step on a large piece of glass and bleed a lot.

Now What?

You step on a nail and it punctures the bottom of your foot.

Now What?

Your brother is angry with you for something you didn’t even do. Your parents aren’t home to intervene.

Now What?

You are super thirsty, but you can’t find anything to drink in the refrigerator.

You know that your mom has a stash of drinks she especially likes in the pantry, and you’re really tempted to quench your thirst.

Now What?

Your mom promised you this morning that she would help you with a school project after school today. You come home and your brother is in the middle of a meltdown. Your mom is trying to help him. But you really need to do this project!

Now What?

Your mom gave you $50.00 to go to the store to buy a nice outfit to wear for a special celebration at school this week. When you get to the store though, you see some shoes that you really want that are on sale for $50.00.

Now What?

Your boss gave you a list of things he wants done right away. You look at the list and there are a few items on it that you’re really not sure how to do.

Now What?

Your teacher notices that the inside of your backpack looks like a trash can exploded inside of it. She asks you to clean it out and have it organized before the end of class.

Now What?